Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12, 13, 23 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Matsuda (4022034).

Matsuda (4022034) teaches the method for providing a protecting tube as claimed including knitting a plurality of yarns (12a, 12b) to form the protecting tube using a Raschel-type flat warp-knitting machine. (column 2, line 14) The protecting tubes being one of an open and closed configuration (see figures 1 & 2) to contain at least one of a cable or conduit (11). Note the specific tricot, chain stitch as seen in figure 2. Concerning the inclusion of the term "flat", Raschel knitting machines are in fact "flat" warp knitting machines since the needles are not set in a circular pattern but rather a linear configuration. As seen in the stitching diagram of figure 2, the needles are straight and therefor are "flat" not circular.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12-14, 18-25 and 29-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ribarev et al. (4781039) in view of Matsuda (4022034).

Ribarev et al. (4781039) teaches the method for providing a protecting tube as claimed including knitting a plurality of yarns to form the protecting tube (D) using a warp-knitting machine. The protecting being one of an open and closed configuration (see figure 20) to contain at least one of a cable or conduit (S). note the second knitted tube(C) and resin(R). While Ribarev et al. (4781039) sets forth that knitting takes place on a warp knitting machine, it is not expressly set forth as being a Raschel warp knitting machine. Matsuda (4022034) shows warp knit tubes formed on Raschel type warp knitting machine. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to which the invention pertains to knit the protective warp knit tube of Ribarev et al. (4781039) on a Raschel type warp knitting machine as shown by Matsuda (4022034) since tubes are typically knit on Raschel machines as shown by Matsuda (4022034) and in order to have the design features and knitting speeds typically associated with Raschel knitting machines. Concerning the specific

Allowable Subject Matter

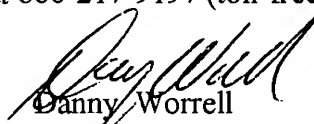

Claims 15-17, 26-28 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
